NEWS RELEASE

June 2, 2004

THE BUNGIE CORD HAS FINALLY GROWN UP

Meet the Shockle®: a combination of double strength shock-cord covered and sealed by strong (2,000# test) sun-resistant, nylon webbing, with a marine-grade anodized carabiner at each end.

When a 50¢ bungee cord just won't do the trick (they bend, break and wear out way too easily), you need a Mini-Shockle®. Use them for tying things on your car roof rack; securing bikes, scooters, skis, kayaks, surfboards, tools or pets in your car or truck. You can clip the 600# test carabiner to a ring or eye-bolt, hook it on an edge, or clip it back around itself. Unlike a cheap traditional bungee hook, it won't come flying off!

Use a Mini-Shockle to lash things down on your bicycle, motorcycle or 4-wheeler. Unlike a strap that will gradually loosen over time—especially on a bumpy road—a Shockle will keep constant pressure on whatever you are holding down.

Shockles are also great for camping: rig them on your tent or awning guy lines. If someone trips over the line, it won't rip the tent. In strong winds the Shockle will absorb a gust instead of tearing the peg out of the ground. Use a Shockle to tie down tarps, hold down chairs, secure trashcan lids, tension a loose line—anywhere you want to clip something so it won't get away.

Boating applications include sail ties, halyard silencers, coiled line keepers, gas tank hold-down, you'll easily come up with many more. Because the carabiners are fully anodized, they won't rust or corrode around salt water. Mini-Shockles are perfect for lashing down extra items to your touring kayak, dingy or whitewater raft. Clip a 24" Mini-Shockle to your fishing reel so when that really big fish bites it won't take your pole home with him—great for kids.

When traveling, Mini-Shockles are great to hold extra bags onto your rolling suitcase: just feed one end through the handles and clip it back to itself. Safe, quick, secure.... and if you accidentally catch a bag on something while doing an "OJ" through the airport, the Shockle will stretch. With 35# of resistance, they're even great for using as an exercise stretch band!

Patented Shockles are strong, look cool, come in various sizes suitable for any use, and there's nothing else like them. Mini-Shockles come in four lengths (6" – $12.95, 12" – $13.95, 18" – $14.95 and 24" – $15.95) and four colors (bright red, royal blue, sterling silver and jet black). They are available on-line at www.shockles.com and in better outdoor stores.
