NEWS RELEASE May 24, 2004

WHAT THE HECK IS A SHOCKLE???

Call it what you will—heavy-duty tie-down, bungee cord on steroids—the SHOCKLE® is the first real improvement in shock-cord tie down straps since.....ever.

Until now if you wanted to lash something to your car, boat, RV, motorcycle, or even around your home, you only had three choices: rope, straps or flimsy bungee cords. All have their drawbacks. It's nearly impossible to tie something down with rope and not have it eventually wiggle it's way loose, especially when it's tied to a vehicle on a bumpy road. Same with tie-down straps: no matter how tight you pull them, they'll eventually loosen up.

And those cheap 'traditional' bungee cords—the kind with the weak wire hook on the end? Forget it if you want to secure anything more than a paperback book, and even then it'll probably go flying.

Originally developed for use on sailboats where the combination of rough seas and high stress applications demanded the need for a high tension, high strength shock-absorbing attachment for booms, blocks, lines and other hardware, boaters soon found a hundred other uses for the SHOCKLE®.

Tying down a tent, tarp or awning on your RV? Rig a SHOCKLE® on the lines and you won't have to worry about gusty winds ripping out the pegs or tearing your expensive fabric. Or the kids tripping over the guy lines and shredding your shelter. Tie down bicycles, motorcycles, kayaks, surfboards, gas cans and luggage in your car or truck. Around the house use them to secure hoses, extension cords, trashcan lids, lawn furniture or even small airplanes!

Use a SHOCKLE® anywhere you need a strong, secure tie-down where you want to keep constant tension on your load. SHOCKLES are made from aircraft-grade elastomer, 2,000# test nylon webbing with a fully anodized marine-grade aluminum carabiner on each end.

SHOCKLES come in 4 sizes (Mini – up to 25#; Force/1 – up to 50#; Force/2 – up to 100#; Force/3 – up to 150#) 4 lengths (6", 12", 18" and 24") and 4 colors (bright red, royal blue, sterling silver and jet black). Mini SHOCKLES are priced from $12.95 - $15.95 while the larger models range from $31.95 - $51.95.
